ALMANAC RANKOTHON 2023

The results are in... where did your favorite card land?

The Original Series 4 Rankothon 2023 Survey ran for a week on the several GPK FB group pages. Participants commented their rating for each for full transparency. Each result's average score is how its final rank was determined.

GPK GOD (Rating 10-9.0)

LEGENDARY (Rating 8.9-8.0)

TIER 1 (Rating 7.9-7.0)

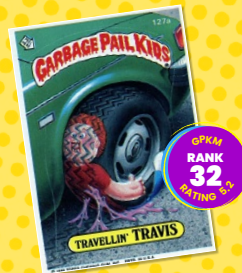

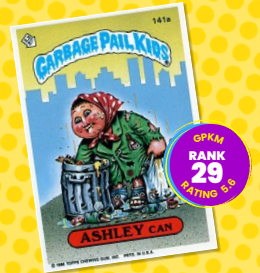

TIER 2 (Rating 6.9-6.0)

TIER 2 (Rating 6.9-6.0)

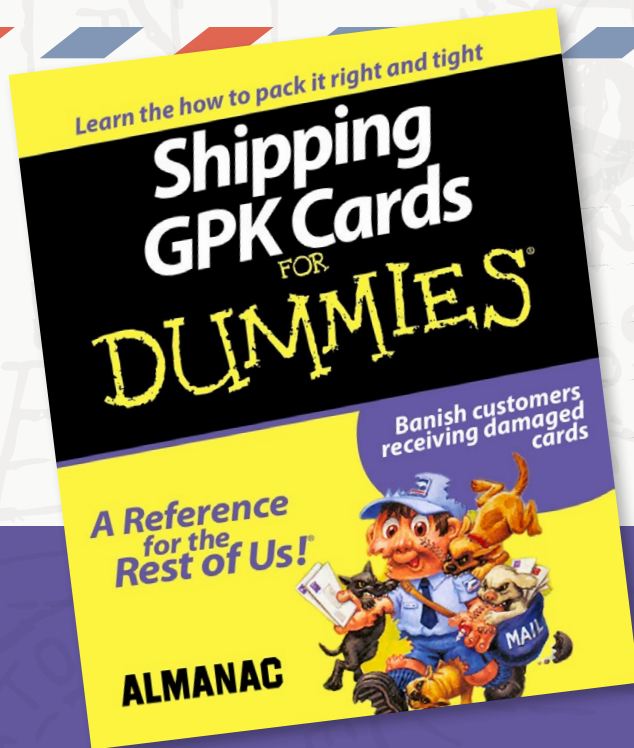

TIER 3 (Rating 5.9-5.0)

JUNK DRAWER
(Rating 4.9 and lower)

The trade or sale is completed, now it's time to send off your item! Please follow the guidelines below to properly pack and ship your GPK items to ensure they arrive safely and undamaged.

By Corey King

Pre-shipment

- After a deal is publicly reached, send buyer a PM to obtain address and secure payment.
- When providing PayPal information, do so in separate line in PM so buyer can copy and paste without error.
- Make sure to discuss if tracking will be provided prior to paying.
- Take screenshots of the Facebook conversation and leave them in the PM to allow both parties to track what was bought, when, and at what price.
- Be prepared to ship ASAP, but no later than 3 business days.

Shipping in greeter and plain white envelope (PWE)

- Put card in a new penny sleeve and if possible a new correct sized top loader.
- Do not force a 55 point card into a 35 point top loader as the card could be damaged inserting or removing card from top loader.
- NEVER PLACE UNSLEEVED CARD IN TOP LOADER!!
- Place sleeved/top loaded card in a team bag.
- If no team bag is available, place a piece of painters tape across top opening of sleeved/top loaded card to prevent card from slipping out.
- DO NOT USE SCOTCH TAPE ON TOP LOADER!!
- Secure card in greeter by using painters tape to attach card to inside of greeter.
- Secure card in PWE by tri-folding an 8.5" x 11" piece of paper then tape sleeved/top loaded card to the center tri fold and fold top and bottom flap over center portion.
- Add a piece of packing tape across back flap of envelope to ensure it will not open in transit.
- Send a picture of the envelope or video of you dropping in post office mailbox to the buyer so they are aware you shipped it.

Domestic greeter/PWE costs and restrictions

- The domestic cost of shipping a greeter or PWE is as follows: 0-0.9 oz = 1 forever stamp, 1-1.9 oz = 1 forever stamp + 1 extra oz stamp, 2-2.9 oz = 1 forever stamp + 2 extra oz stamps, 3-3.5 oz = 1 forever stamp + 3 extra oz stamps. The cost of a domestic forever stamp is currently $0.63 (April 2023).
- The weight of a domestic or international greeter or PWE is limited to 3.5 oz or less. The thickness of a greeter or PWE cannot exceed 0.25" thick.

International greeter/PWE costs and restrictions

- The international cost of shipping a greeter or PWE from US to Canada is as follows: 0-1.9 oz is 1 international stamp, 2-2.9 oz is 2 international stamps, 3-3.5 oz is 3 international stamps.
- The international cost of shipping a greeter or PWE from US to Anywhere outside Canada globally is as follows: 0-0.9 oz is 1 international stamp, 1-1.9 oz is 2 international stamps, 2-2.9 oz is 3 international stamps, 3-3.5 oz is 4 international stamps.
- The cost of an international forever stamp is currently $1.45 (February 2023).

Shipping with tracking

- Follow initial sleeving and top loading steps above.
- Determine the correct packaging for your card(s), which is typically a bubble mailer or a small box.
- For valuable cards (>$100), it is recommended to put the card in a one touch, secure with painters tape, place in team bag, and ship in a small box.
- Secure card(s) in bubble mailer by cutting 2 pieces of cardboard to fit your sleeved/top loaded card(s). Use painters tape to secure cardboard pieces to front and back of card. Add bubble wrap or increase cardboard size to ensure card(s) do not shift in bubble mailer.
- Secure card in small box by enclosing card with cardboard on front and back. Use bubble wrap or old newspaper to secure card in small box. Make sure enough packing material is used to prevent card(s) from moving.
- Determine the cheapest shipping method. USPS charges a higher retail rate when you purchase tracked shipping at a post office. UPS or FedEx are often times cheaper for larger/heavier boxes.
- Save yourself and future buyers money by using a shipping website like Pirate Ship that is free to set up and substantially cheaper. USPS and UPS are both available on Pirate Ship.
- Print out the shipping label using a normal printer with 8.5" x 11" paper, resize/cut to fit the package, and tape to package using clear packing tape. The label CAN be covered with clear packing tape despite the USPS stating otherwise.
- If you ship frequently, buy a thermal label printer. It saves time with no cutting/taping paper and requires no ink.
- Take a picture of the shipping label and send to buyer via PM. Provide tracking to buyer in a single line in the PM so they can easily copy/paste info into a tracking website.

The Almanac Team provides pricing points that are based on data gathered from various sources and are offered as a helpful point of reference. Actual prices offered may vary, based on market conditions. All prices (U.S. dollars) are based on near-mint ungraded condition with sharp corners and edges. Dinged corners, handled condition, stains, writing, etc., all dramatically affect the value of the card.

Get a Grip Skateboards was EXPLICITLY formed out of an incomprehensible addiction and passion for GPK. It is time for you to get a grip, get on board, get crazy, and do a god darn kickflip!

GET A GRIP

skateboards

Oh mama!!

It goes without saying that you already know who is stepping into the artist hot seat for this issue! He's certainly a hard one to pin down, we thought long and hard, searched far and wide, looked high and low, worked day and night, sailed the seven seas, weighed up all the possibilities and then we just messaged Rory McQueen. And guess what...he said YES!

Rory McQueen crashed into the Garbage Pail Kids scene in 2017 with his unmistakable art style and indistinguishable signature. From sketch cards to final art, skateboard wheels and decks, Mr McQueen appears to be busier than ever in the GPK multi-verse. We asked Rory some questions, so we can see what makes him tick, what grinds his gears, and so we all get to know this British boy a little better.

DID YOU COLLECT GARBAGE PAIL KIDS WHEN YOU WERE YOUNGER AND WHAT IS YOUR EARLIEST MEMORY OF GPK?

I was 6 and a kid at school had two packs of Series 1, a small, excited group of us gathered round as he opened up the pink glossy packs, stuffing the gum into his mouth and proudly leafing through the cards. For the rest of the day they were all I could think about and the minute I got out of school I begged my Mum for some and she capitulated! I was completely hooked and collected until series 6, which was where the fun stopped for grubby UK kids.

WHAT'S THE WEIRDEST REACTION YOU'VE HAD WHEN YOU'VE TOLD SOMEONE THAT YOU DRAW GPK FOR A JOB?

When GPK is mentioned to people my age who have not thought about them for 30+ years it's amazing to see the sparkle in their eyes, the rush of nostalgia, followed by "I used to LOVE them!!" That's when it's fun to tell people what I do. But in answer to the question; knickers thrown at me!

IS WORKING ON GPK AS FUN AS YOU MAKE IT LOOK?

I'm a lifelong fan and collector so drawing them is just a dream! If I show my kids what I'm drawing and they laugh or say "GROSSS!" I know I'm on the right track!

IN RECENT TIMES, WE'VE SEEN YOUR ART APPEAR ON MULTIPLE PIECES OF LICENSED MERCH FOR GET A GRIP, FROM CUPS AND SKATEBOARD WHEELS, TO DECKS AND FOAM FINGERS. WHAT'S IT LIKE WORKING WITH THEM?

I love it when a company allows their products to be pushed into new places. I think that's what's been so rewarding working with both Get a Grip and Topps, despite my style veering off the tradition GPK model, they have let me run with it and the results are both fun and successful!

TELL US ABOUT YOUR EXPERIENCES WITH THE GPK SUPER FANS AT GROSS CARD CON?

Ahh man, that was such a wicked experience! A big trip but would LOVE to do it again! Meeting the community was so fun! In fact the best thing about Garbage Pail Kids are the people who collect Garbage Pail Kids. I've made lifelong friends through this, you can't beat that! ALMANAC

FAVORITE GPK MEMORY FROM YOUR CHILDHOOD?

I had a paper route when I was 10 years old, it was 1985. I got a young start at learning what money was all about, and my parents would let me spend it on whatever I wanted. I started by buying packs of 2nd Series at a 7-11 in Walla Walla, Washington, but it was over 5 miles away, so I had to bug my mom to take me. Since I couldn't go as much as I wanted, I learned to save my money. The next year we moved to California and OS3 was already out, and the hunt was on. I called around to every store I could and started buying packs up. I got another paper route to fill my pockets back up, and eventually once OS4 came around, I was now buying GPK by the box. I bought boxes of OS4-OS9, then I kind of fizzled out as I was now in middle school and baseball cards were really starting to become big. One day around 1990 I went to the Flea Market in San Jose, CA and I came across a vendor selling packs of OS1 for $8 each. I wasn't currently collecting GPK at the time, but I had never seen an OS1 pack in my life. I felt a sudden rush of nostalgia and love that had been missing in my life for a few years. The beautiful pink pack that was no longer 25 cents was calling my name. I went home that day and gathered as much money as I could and went back the next day and bought as much as I could. I went home that day and showed my parents the score I got! My mom loves GPK and my dad likes anything that is worth money. When they asked how much I paid for them, and I told them about $150 (in 1990 money that's about $350 today) My parents were not really thrilled with me. They couldn't say a whole lot though, because it was my money that I had worked for and saved. They also sat and watched as I opened up about 20 packs at the kitchen table. I made sure to eat the 5 year old gum and share with my sister. Still tasted good from what I remember. The absolute thrill of opening OS1 packs, with my family sitting around watching me pull cards that I had only been able to trade for in the past, was super exciting. A complete rush that I won't ever forget. By this point I was used to taking care of baseball cards by putting them in 9 holder plastic sheets, so I took my pack fresh OS1 and put them in sheets that I still have to this day.

FAVORITE GPK MEMORY AS AN ADULT?

The hunt for cards that you need to finish your set is a cool and frustrating experience. It could take YEARS to finish something you start, especially in today's current market with all of the parallels and different boxes from different stores. I have really enjoyed interacting with so many cool people around the world in helping them and getting help to finish a set or two. As I got older and had more money, I found myself starting multiple collections at once. From OS1-4 PSA9-10 sets, to Chrome and my favorite, a complete sealed box set of every box Topps produced in the US and Canada, and even the UK. This of course cost a lot, but has given me great joy as well. I have one of the largest collections of sealed boxes along with Jason Tipps, and every time I feel like I'm only 1 box away from finishing, Jason seems to find another one that I'm missing. This keeps the thrill going as now I have to eventually find that one box with that random UPC code or sticker on the front that makes it different from all the others. Most recently, I finished my Chrome 2 auto set, just shy of 8 years from when it first came out. When I got that text message from a collector that said, "Hey, are you looking for this Live Mike/Jolted Joel auto still?" My heart skipped a beat and I got that sweaty excited feeling you can only get from reaching a goal. I couldn't sleep very well that night and once I made the deal, felt some relief to finish up with the entire Chrome 2 set. PS. If you're still wondering which box I need to finish up, it's the 16 pack AAAP box with the yellow $2.49 sticker on the front. Oh the joys of being a completionist.

WHAT GOT YOU OUT OF GPK COLLECTING WHEN YOU WERE YOUNG?

From 1985 to 1989 I was hardcore into GPK. Even more than most of my friends. I would give all my friends nicknames based on GPK (Furry Murray, Stinky Stan, Undead Jed, Matt Ratt and my favorite Sewer Sue Michelle Muck, as my sister's name is Susan Michelle, which if I may add, I still call her to this day). I loved GPK enough that now I would buy them by the box, which is great, but it limited the amount of trading I needed to do with friends since I could complete the sets on my own. Since I was no longer trading I didn't necessarily talk about them 24/7 anymore. I lived in the San Francisco Bay Area where both teams were playing great. With Jose Canseco, Mark McGwire, and Rickey Henderson on one side and Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell on the other, baseball mania took over, and I needed my money to collect their cards and get autographs, and go to games and card shows. It was too much to do both. By the time 1989 rolled around both teams were in the World Series together and with me being a freshman in high school, girls caught my eye a lot more. They would much rather hear about the Giants and A's than Nasty Nick, Adam Bomb, and Tommy Gun. It was time for me to move on into adolescence.

WHY DID YOU GET BACK INTO COLLECTING GPK?

In 2006 I had just moved to the East Coast for a job that was going to pay me more money than I had ever earned in my life. I got a call from my mom one day and she sounded excited. "Have you seen they came out with Garbage Pail Kids again?" BOOM!! Sudden rush of excitement, happiness and wonder! I had not and had a ton of questions. What did they look like, where did they sell them, how could I get them? I immediately jumped on eBay and there they were. All New Series 4. But if this was ANS4, where was ANS 1-3? Oh damn, here they are and say goodbye to my money as I tried to play catch up. I didn't collect for too long as my full time job and girlfriend and making new friends in a new state took over. I always thought about the GPK, and knew I'd always be able to play catchup thanks to the internet. Fast forward 10 years later to 2016-2017 and I saw some boxes in Target.

"Wow" I thought, they are still making these? Let me go online and see what's up. oh boy was I in for a ride of emotions. Look at these Chrome cards!! These are the most beautiful things I've ever seen in my life. I NEED these in my life, and they want HOW MUCH for a box on the aftermarket? Oh dammit, I missed the bus. I bought as much C1 as I could from websites, and then decided it was probably going to be cheaper and easier to buy sets from people. So I set off on buying sets from people like Bryan Ayala who had opened a billion boxes on his own. I was able to complete C1 and C2 sets from Gold to Auto and everything in between this way, and for the ones I couldn't, pieced them together over time (Years).

I had now opened Pandora's box (Pun intended for a sealed box collector) and knew I needed to play some catch up and continue on with my box collection. I've been going strong ever since and enjoy the hunt for boxes and Chrome sets.

WHAT ARE YOU CURRENTLY COLLECTING?

I had a son (Atlas, whom I call SPLATLAS) a little over a year ago and got new job as a Realtor as well. My time has been very limited lately and I haven't been able to focus on anything other than making sure my sealed box collection, which includes any box with a different UPC code, stays current. I have a ton of extra sealed boxes from a lot of different series that I will either open one day or just sell to collectors that need a certain box or two. I will probably continue on with Collecting Chrome 4 and 5 when I get the chance to play catch up. Other than that, the only thing I'm collecting is time with my family.

WHAT WAS THE TOUGHEST ACQUISITION TO YOUR COLLECTION?

Everything is always the toughest acquisition. Finding hard to locate boxes, the last Chrome Gold, the Last Chrome Auto, the missing Uncut sheet, the Superfractor you've been dreaming about, the PSA card to complete a series or set. Nothing is ever easy, which is why we rely on our friends in the Marketplace and Deal or No Deal and the Collective and a few other groups to help us complete our goals. My current goal I'm trying to put together is a Chrome 1 plate set. Not just any plate, cause that would be too easy, lol, but I am collecting blank plates from Chrome 1. I currently have about half of the characters. I commissioned the uber talented Pat (Patman) Chaimuang to paint the characters on the plates for me. He told me it was a very difficult thing to do and he actually dislikes doing it. Since he started mine, he would be willing to finish, but he doesn't want to do any other plates. I guess im lucky to have been "grandfathered in" with Pat.

The hard part is getting people to part with their blank plates. Im not sure why, since a blank plate is pretty boring, but everyone collects something, and you cant MAKE people part with something they want to keep. I don't imagine I could ever find a blank Adam/Billy, Nick/Eddie, but you never know and thats what makes the chase fun.

WHAT WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE FOR THE FUTURE OF THE HOBBY OR THE COMMUNITY?

I think it would be really cool if they gave artists a full series they could do themselves. Use any current character that is out there, and maybe 5-10 new ones, and complete an entire series. Can you imagine a full set of characters from Patman, or (Insert your favorite artist)? I think that would be so cool. Include some autos, maybe some plates. Do it in the Chrome version card and make it amazing. On top of that, offer more giveaways, like uncut sheets, become a Garbage Pail Kid, redemptions (Except for Canada which has to do a math problem for redemptions. lol) and just make the chase for other things fun again.

ONE LAST QUICK STORY

As you can tell by the pictures in my sealed box collection, I'm the proud owner of 4 OS1 boxes. One is a Canadian O-Pee-Chee, one is a box with No 25 cents and the remaining 2 boxes are with the 25 cent logo. People ask me all the time where I got them from and such. I had a lot of help in piecing together the Canadian box. I can't remember exactly who sold me a chunk of them some years back, but if had to guess it was probably Luis Thompson, who has always been good to me in trades and sales. Another box I bought off of a collector a year or two before the pandemic hit for a super deal.

At the time it was way more than I wanted to spend or knew I should be spending, but I just couldn't resist that beautiful pink box and wrappers. In hindsight, I'm thankful I took the plunge at it. The other 2 boxes have been in my possession for at least 20 years. Neither one was I the original owner, but I acquired them in the late 90's/early 2000's and had them squirreled away for safe keeping. No I will not sell you a box, I enjoy being one of the few people that has 4 of them. I do have one box earmarked for another sealed box collector in case we can ever come to an agreement on a deal, but I'm certainly in no hurry to watch this box walk out my door. These boxes will only continue to go up in rarity and price, so my recommendation to anyone that just HAS to have one, is to buy a pack at a time here and there. Yes one pack is expensive, but so is an entire box, and you cant get to 48 without starting at 1. Good luck to everyone on their chase for such an elusive product. Its the holy grail of our hobby and everyone should have the chance to own one! ALMANAC

Chrome 1's Pencil Art parallel cards only required black ink. Each card still had four plates like the base set did, but the cyan, yellow and magenta plates had blank fronts. Chrome 2 only had one black plate and no blank plates for each Pencil Art card.

1. What fueled your interest in GPK? Did you collect as a child?

I never collected GPK as a kid. My mom never bought them for me since she felt the cards were making fun of kids' names. She was afraid that there would be a card with my name and maybe I would have felt ridiculed. It's a running joke with me and my mom now that I currently create GPK sketch cards.

My first job after graduating from Pratt Institute was designing Topps trading cards. The first GPK and Wacky sets I designed were the Flashback sets which inspired me to collect them.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with?

My favorite GPK character is Bony Joanie, and Has-Been Jasmine. I do not have a least favorite character.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies? Music, sculpture?

I mostly use acrylic and glitter in my artwork. I've become known for my use of glitter. Other hobbies: Disney and crocheting.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field?

My favorite contemporary artist is Yoko Ono. I had the honor to meet her when she made an appearance at Pratt. The impact she made on me was so powerful and so inspirational that she blew my mind. I went home that day and made 10 paintings just based on the inspiration she gave me.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK?

My advice for other women: Know you are worth that raise, that new job, respect and love. Don't ever let anyone put you in a box!

JULIE CAIN

1. What fueled your interest in GPK? Did you collect as a child?

Yes, I collected in the '80s! Some of my favorite memories as a child include Garbage Pail Kids growing up. My parents would buy them for me and my brother often. I traded them in school and with the neighborhood kids.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with?

Initially, when I got back into collecting about 4 years ago, I was a huge fan of Beth Death, and she still is my all-time favorite. I worked in death care as a funeral director and embalmer and then also with the county coroner for many years, and naturally, I was drawn to that card.

3. What medium do you prefer to use?

I use both acrylics and alcohol markers. I feel like alcohol markers are great for certain applications including sketch cards and they are a lot of fun to work with. However, I think my best work is in my acrylic paintings as they seem to come more naturally and it shows in my works. I always have enjoyed working with paints the most.

Any other art hobbies?

I do like to sew! I make merch for a local industrial band on the side. It's just a fun way to make a few extra bucks...and I try to have fun with it and be creative.

Music?

I absolutely love to see and support live music. I currently work in the music industry as an assistant at a small record label. I also help run a Post Punk and Industrial Music Museum here in Chicago.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field?

This is a very hard question because I have so many favorite artists! It's like music...and there is so much talent out there. It's difficult to choose just one...but okay, it's gotta be Tom Bunk! His ideas and attention to detail go unmatched. Seeing his works in both Mad Magazine and Garbage Pail Kids growing up fueled my love for his art and my love for all things "gross."

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK?

My advice is to just to keep it gross and, more importantly, make sure you don't get burnt out. You gotta also keep it fun, and that requires a delicate balance of time and self-discipline.

1. What fueled your interest in GPK ? Did you collect as a child ?

I've always loved GPK since I was a kid. Kids love gross stuff so the artwork fascinated me in that respect. I didn't collect as a child. Wish I did tho now. I mostly admired the art.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with ?

I just adore Dead Ted. Don't necessarily identify with any particular character personally, but they're all fantastically fun and grotesque in their own way.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art hobbies ? Music , sculpture ?

I fell in love with acrylic paint a few years back. Prior to that a lot of my work was either black and white / graphite or coloured pencil. But the versatility of acrylic has won my heart for sure.

Other art hobbies, I do sing from time to time with my uncle's band. I can play a few instruments. I visit galleries and such when I have time too.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field ?

My favourite GPK artist HAS to be Pat Chaimuang. His skills are off the charts. I study his work all the time. He's someone I aspire to be as good as. The way he can balance the cute cartoony style of GPK with a hint of realism is super impressive. Not to mention his popping colours and fantastic use of light and shade. Just wow.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK ?

Advice for any future women of GPK would be to work hard. Find your niche and go at it with all you have. It's a pretty male-dominated community so don't let that deter you. Your work should speak for itself so let that do the talking. Take your knock backs and criticism, but don't let them define you as an artist. Keep pushing and aiming high. Above all be kind. Interact with your customers and followers. Respond to people. Take the time to create a good name for yourself and just keep on going no matter what.

KIMBER GROBMAN

1. What fueled your interest in GPK ? Did you collect as a child ?

I was a huge collector as a kid. I would sit for hours and stare at some of these cards, the intricate details, the painting style and I was mesmerized! It was definitely one of my earliest memories of wanting to be an artist.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with ?

I'm a B abbling Brooke fan, lol. I was a huge chatterbox as a kid, and I feel like she is my spirit animal!

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies ? Music, sculpture ?

I typically use acrylics in my every day job. But I really enjoy a few other mediums especially when I'm working on passion projects or freelance stuff. I'm an avid user of acrylic gouache, Caran d'Ache crayon and COPIC marker. I do also like to sculpt. The last few years I've been doing a lot of pop culture nesting dolls and ornament sets. In 2021 my biggest selling sets were all Garbage Pail Kids!

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field ?

I'm a huge, huge fan of Pat Chaimuang and John Cebollero. Their paintings are some of the most buttery and beautifully styled pieces I have ever seen. I aspire to be that good!

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK ?

Perseverance! I'm a strong believer in the idea that you can make anything happen if you work hard enough! I've been fortunate enough to have had some pretty cool art jobs in my life and I can attribute that to a never give up attitude. I know it sounds hokey but it's true. I wanted nothing more than to work on the show Robot Chicken, way back in it's heyday, and I'll tell you, I did everything I could to make it happen. And low and behold, here we are 15 years later and not only was I the first ever credited Graphic Artist for the show (on season 4) but I also have a Primetime Emmy Certificate to boot! You just have to keep at it, eventually you will get everything you want!

1. What fueled your interest in GPK? Did you collect as a child?

I don't actually have an interest in GPK and did not collect as a child, in UK they were not as big a thing as in USA, so I got into them via Garbage Chute Droids a Star Wars offshoot homage set/sets that I do sketch cards for and printed cards, through doing those cards as droids I have come to discover GPK, I do collect the GCD sets though.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with?

I do indeed have a fave. Adam Bomb, and all my Garbage Chute Droid sketch cards are versions of Adam Bomb as different droids.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies? Music, sculpture?

I prefer to use a mixed medium in COPIC markers, pencils, inks, acrylic paints and white gel pens, water and black gesso.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field?

Without a doubt my Fav GPK artist is GPK first ever UK female artist and my friend Bekki Jayne Sharp.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK?

Be confident and don't fuss over what others do, focus on what YOU do, be persistent, be on time with deadlines and above all. Re negotiate your contracts, don't just accept the low pay offer, nudge it a couple bucks per card, know and get your worth. Help everyone you can. It's a super tough industry and hyper critical, don't be harsh on yourself, ignore negative input that doesn't come from a genuine place of help, learn to grow a thick skin and in selling your art or AP's; "If at first you don't succeed...triple your prices" nothing is permanent, plan for change, literally anything can happen and usually does right when you get comfortable so be on your toes. Adapt and reinvent yourself as much as possible.

1. What fueled your interest in GPK? Did you collect as a child?

It was actually my little brother Jeff who collected them, so I knew about it. I was about 20 when they came out so it wasn't something I collected. I was more into Wacky Packages. Back then I remember when GPK first came out and how crazy it was. However, as an Artist, I became interested when Jeff suggested I submit my own GPK concepts to Topps. (looking back at it now, I have to laugh how overly gross I drew those first cards). Later, in 2014, Colin Walton hired me as a sketch artist, for both Wackys and Garbage Pail Kids. I soon started collecting the cards as art references. I started to notice the details and how well the art was illustrated. One of my first cards I noticed was "Locked Dorian", the expression was hilarious. That card showed more of what the Spirit of GPK should be. Now, I have a collection of cards, toys, coins, and more.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with?

My favorite characters are the ones that were a parody of the Masters, such as Mona Loser, Van Gogh, basically any of the cards that copied the art of the masters. Also, the first series cards.

My other favorite is nature inspired cards. I don't have any specific favorite card because I can't choose just one. I love drawing those,

Most Relatable: Schizo Fran, I am constantly fighting with myself and have trouble making up my mind, I have a lot of art related hobbies and keep jumping from one project to another.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies? Music, sculpture?

I like to use a mix of mediums, from watercolor and marker to marker and colored pencil, acrylic paint, gold leaf and more. Hobbies: A variety of Art and Crafts and Singing, Creating Custom Art GPK. I was a licensed artisan in Puerto Rico in wood burning on carved buildings that I made. I also create masks and parade props, puppets, murals and am currently creating Paper Sculptures and hats for the Easter Parade and multicultural festivals. I also enjoy entertaining Art, creative cooking and entertaining, singing (I originally wanted to be a Broadway actress) flower arranging, gardening, and more- yes there is more.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field ?

I have to say Jeff Zapata (My brother) but more because I saw how he evolved from kindergarten figures to amazing art. He is one of the few artists that can surprise me with what he can draw. I also love the original artist and writers of GPK, Art Spiegelman, John Pound (face expressions) Tom Bunk, Mark Newgarden, Norm Saunders, Jay Lynch for his clean lines, etc. I also love James Warhola "Sappy Sarah... honestly, I don't have just one favorite, there are some new and old artist that I just love.

I also love all the women artists of GPK that put a nice spin to the characters that has been dominated by male artists.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK ?

Yes, here is a good way to explain it. I once wrote a story and submitted to a Harper Collins contest, unexpectedly I won a mentorship award, but before that, I kept sending letters to editors, and did all the things the books say to do.. Finally, I decided to add illustrations to my book, just to get noticed. It worked. I soon noticed my art was getting me in. I noticed a news team that was going to be in my neighborhood, so I drew their faces and turned them into mask. That morning I went to the site, and they saw me and added me to news program. I did this also for a cooking show with an illustration to a recipe I created. So basically, I thought of creative ways to get attention. Your art can get you attention, you need to be on social media where you can get noticed. Post often. Also get a trade magazine like Non-Sports Update and look at the ads, find out who the editors are, Get the editors to come to you, get a website and post your art. Use judgement, you don't want to annoy the editor, just want to keep in touch. Also follow up with snail mail. USPS. I send Christmas cards every year. Think of creative ways to get noticed. Also, RESEARCH, know what the style of character they do, have a voice and style that is different from the rest. What makes you different without distorting their character? Anyway, this is just a few tips. I hope this helps.

My hope that there will be a day where we can see a mix of all kinds of artists. Throughout the 8 years sketching for Topps, I have seen the list of sketch artist grow which brings diversity and a different spin/style to the art.

1. What fueled your interest in GPK ? Did you collect as a child ?

My interest in GPK started with series one. I was nine years old in 1985, and as a kid what got me interested was the comedy and grossness. Running down the street to buy packs at Circle K with all my change was a highlight too. As I got older though, I was able to appreciate the artwork in a whole new way.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with ?

I don't really have a hands-down favorite GPK as they all have their own appeal, but later in life I began to really love the fine art & street art references in GPK.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies ? Music, sculpture ?

For GPK I prefer to use inks and color pencils. I do have a love for acrylic painting and creating multi medium 2D art. For art that is non-GPK, a lot of my work is on the non-objective spectrum. Also, I really love doing micro size sketch cards, Shrinky Dinks, and Wacky Packages + GPK mashup cards. It's fun!

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field ?

Gosh, this one's so hard to answer because each artist has their own style, but Tom Bunk, James Warhola, and Jeff Zapata are a couple of my favorites.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK ?

Just keep on creating! Try not to compare your art to others or be so hard on yourself. Create what you love, and have fun doing it.

1. What fueled your interest in GPK ? Did you collect as a child ?

Someone's kid left behind an OS 1 set, wrapped in rubber bands, on the dressing room floor at my grandparent's boutique!! I have been collecting ever since I found this little treasure in 1985.

2. Do you have a favorite / least favorite or a special character you identify with ?

I collect and identify with Beth Death. I also think Potato CHIP is pretty special.

3. What medium do you prefer to use? Any other art or hobbies ? Music, sculpture ?

I currently use markers, but I enjoy acrylics and pastels too. My other hobbies include collecting uranium glass, voodoo dolls, wooden masks and books.

4. Who is your favorite GPK artist or contemporary artist in the field ?

I have so many favorites, but to name a few: Branden Snyder, Shane Garvey, Barry Nygma and our glitter queen Jasmine Contois.

5. Any advice for future WOMEN of GPK ?

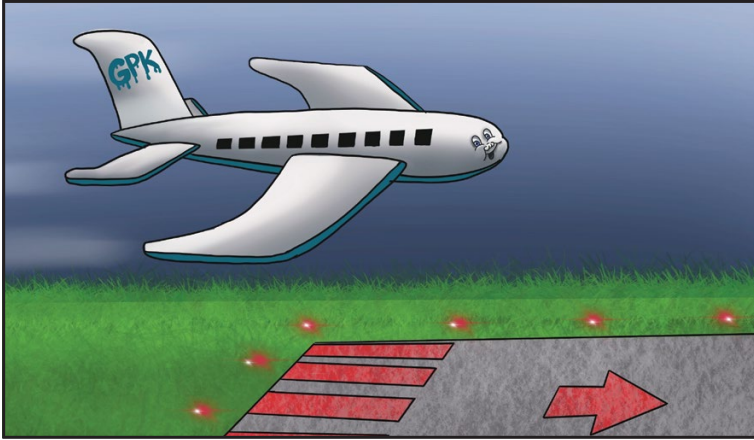

Just Do IT!
